Mr. Donald Ricklefs

Math

Not many major changes have occurred within the math department this year. There is still continued use of the overhead projectors, a classroom counting frame, and the computer terminal.

An extra class for any student interested in learning how to use the computer was held in the morning before school. The class was taught by Mr. Ricklefs.

Our Year

Library Aids Student Research

Mrs. Carol Brade capably handles the library business.

Library

Just as last year, the library has seen many changes which have been a great benefit for students and teachers alike.

New equipment in the library includes cassette tape players, a microfilm reader, a photocopying machine, the conference room area, and slides of foreign countries.

Counselors

Guiding the students for a better understanding of which courses are best suited for each is just one job that our three counselors undertake. They also provide information on colleges, career possibilities, and scholarships. Mrs. McKinney provides the needed information to the senior class, Mr. Fadiga assists the juniors, and Mr. Abbott directs the sophomore class.

ELMER LAYDEN RETURNS FOR HOMECOMING

FOUR HORSEMEN—Miller, Layden, Crowley and Stuhldreher

"Outlined against a blue gray October sky the Four Horsemen rode again. In dramatic lore, they are known as famine, pestilence, destruction and death. These are only aliases. Their real names are Stuhldreher, Miller, Crowley and Layden."

"A Different Sort of Homecoming"

I knew very little of Elmer Layden prior to his short appearance at our pep-rally on Friday night, October 2—the night before our first homecoming game in 11 years against Marquette. Seated with the rest of the football players, I could never describe the feelings of pride and anticipation within me as the cheerleaders yelled, the people screamed, and the band blared. And then, with short, steady strides, that remarkable, gray-haired individual approached the stage. He casually stepped up to the microphone and related with ease and humor many stories filled with the ageless traditions of Notre Dame football. And later as I walked back to the dorm, I knew that somehow tomorrow's game would mean a little more. Mean more because one man wanted to share the richness of his past with the newness of our own homecoming tradition. Thank you, Elmer Layden, for making our first a very "different sort of homecoming."

English Classes Cultivate Deeper Study

English

Team teaching is an important facet in the English classes here at MHS. The team students all have the same teachers for the participating classes and individualized teaching is stressed.

Trips to the Muscatine Journal and the Davenport Democrat were taken by Mr. Kite's Journalistic Writing class.

The Humanities classes had several guest speakers this year. Among them were Mr. Ash from the music department, Mr. Kite from drama, and Mr. Hanson from the history department.

The special education classes were relocated in an adjacent building to the school. These classes concentrate on giving the special student meaningful learning experiences that will help him prepare for the world of work.

Miss Beth McCabe stresses a rule in English class.

Science Arouses Curiosity

Science

Muskie High's physical science department has introduced an IPS-II program this year. This is a highly structured course designed to help prepare students for college.

The physics class took a trip to Chicago and toured the Museum of Science and Industry. Two guest speakers gave lectures to the science classes and those interested. The speakers were Dr. Blagen, a population ecologist, and Dr. Evans, a cancer biologist.

Also, the Environvan paid a visit to the high school.

Mr. Casini's advanced biology classes dissected cats this year to further their knowledge of anatomy.

Loras College to George Meany
Outstanding American of 1970
The John Fitzgerald Kennedy Award

John Fitzgerald Kennedy exemplified the qualities most sacred and dear to Americans, true faith in God and in the Constitution of the United States of America.

In the spirit of our departed President who lives after death as an ideal of the principles of the founding fathers of our country that all men are created equal and possessed of certain inalienable rights, Loras College has established this annual award to an Outstanding American who walks in the footsteps of John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

Such an American is George Meany.

A native of New York City, George Meany has spent a lifetime of service to the trade union movement. Forced by family financial circumstances to abandon his formal education while still in high school, he followed his father's trade and received his journeyman plumber's certificate at the age of 21.

His leadership qualities were quick to emerge. He was elected business agent of his local in 1922; served as President of the New York State Federation of Labor from 1934-39; was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the American Federation of Labor in 1940 and held that office until his selection as President of the organization in 1952. He labored assiduously for the reunion of the AFL and CIO and when the merger was effected became the first President of the AFL-CIO, a post which he still holds.

Mr. Meany's interests and contributions are in no way confined to trade unionism. He has served on several Presidential Advisory Commissions, dealing with both domestic and international affairs, and served two terms as a Delegate to the General Assembly of the United Nations.

In addition to his contribution toward healing the divisions within the trade union movement, he was instrumental in establishing an Ethical Practices Committee within the AFL-CIO to improve both the substance and the image of the labor movement.

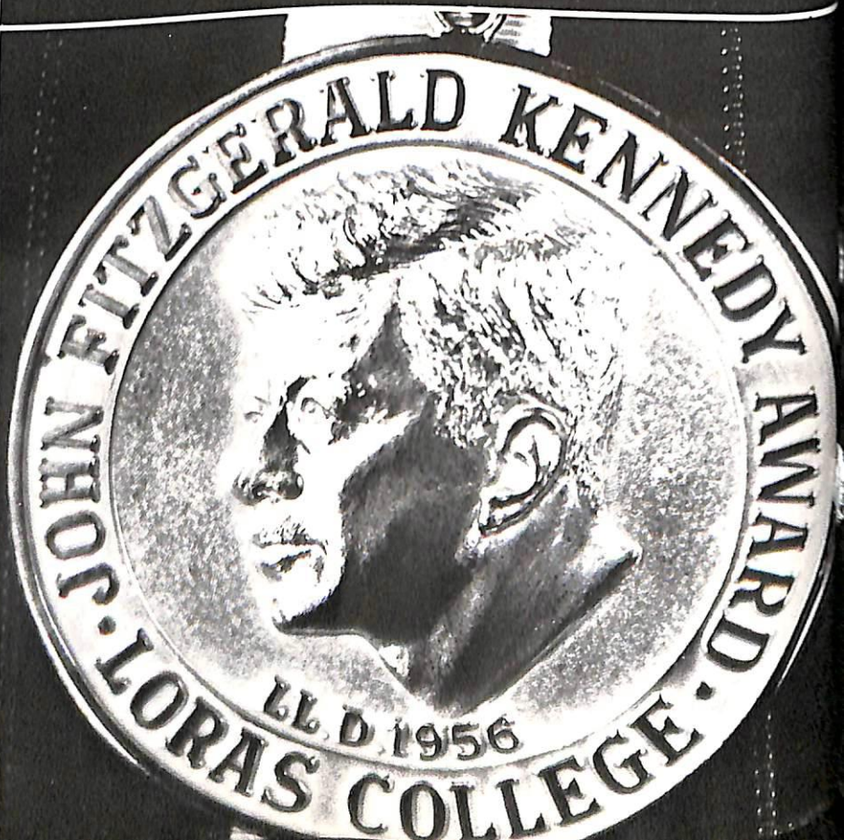

A recognized authority on national economic issues, social legislation and international affairs, George Meany pioneered in moves to attain industrial peace and led in the fight for civil rights. In all this -- he took the view point that what is best for the nation as a whole is best for its wage-earners.

Therefore, Loras College presents the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Award to this Outstanding American of 1970.

Witness the seal of Loras attested by the signature of its President this eighteenth day of October, 1970.

FRED WARING

Don't Drink the Water

Above: Tom Kokontis delicately sets a fuse while at the right, Mary Trieweiler warmly responds to the non-flattering foreigner.

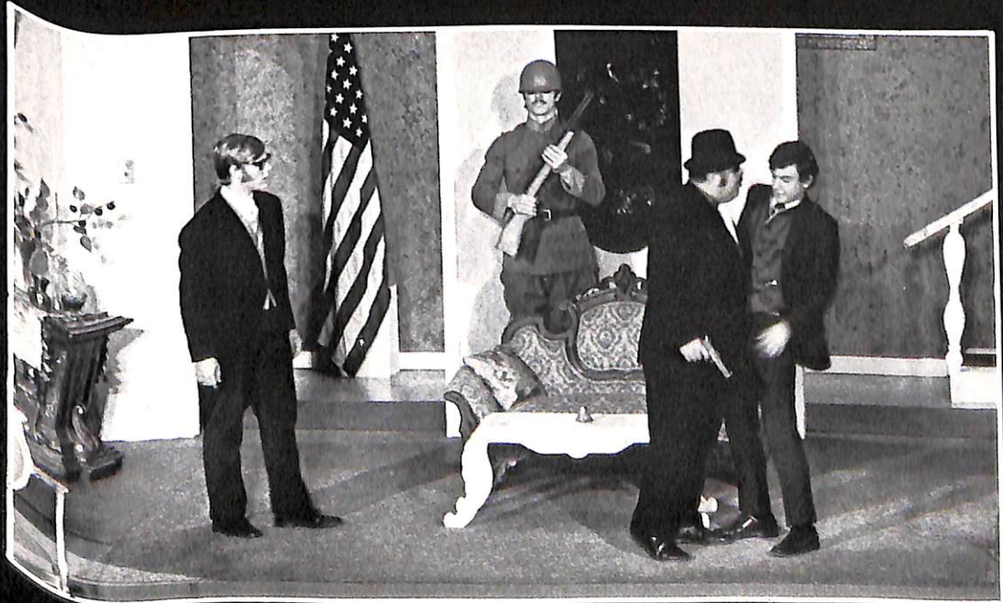

"Don't Drink The Water", a merry farce about a Newark caterer accused of spying in a Communist country while innocently sight-seeing, opened the Loras Players' theater season for a three-day run beginning October 30.

Caught unsuspectingly shooting snapshots of secret military installations in his typically-tourist, multi-colored sports shirt, Walter Hollender, played by Doug Kline, led his family through this rib-tickling tale.

Directed by Mr. Donald Stribling, the hilarious crew produced a show that led their audience through every emotion from laughter to fear. Other characters included Lauretta Stribling, as Doug's wife, Mary Trieweiler as their daughter Susan, Tom Kokontis playing Axel Magee, Mark Cole, Tom Cunliffe, Bill Matykowski, John Callo, and Steve Hockins.

Below: Tom is caught in a not-so-easy situation as Mary had stunned her charmer while at the left below, Tom Cunliffe with gun in hand scowls at the whimpering polititian as Steve Hockins and Bill Matykowski balance the set.

A "Sneak" P "Preview" O

Clarke-Loras Madrigals—"Put On Your Sunday Clothes"

"Spinning-Wheel—A Musical Revolution!" denoted a revolution in more ways than one for the Alpha Phi Omega's 17th Annual Sneak Preview. Departing from the variety format of years past, Director Paul Logli used the title to explore the development of popular music over the past fifty years.

Highlights of the exceptional overall performance included Barb Conner singing "Leaving on a Jet Plane"; Karen Zobac stunned the enthusiastic audience with her rendition of "Stardust"; and John Manzo, who led a trio as Richard Henry Lee, belted out "The Lees of Old Virginia" from the recent hit musical "1776."

The old saying about "saving the best until last" was more than true. The rousing finale "Celebrate" captured the spirit and excitement of a cast rejoicing at their completion of six weeks of preparation.

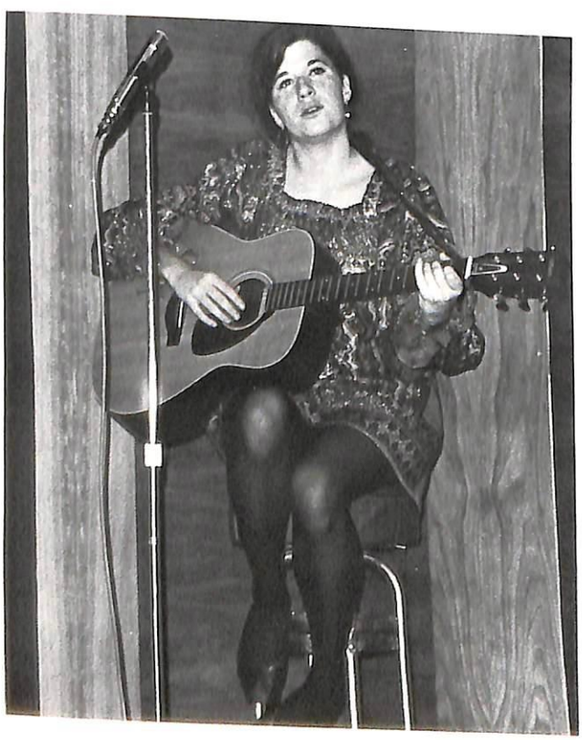

With the proceeds of the Sneak Preview going towards the Alpha Phi Omega's Auto Safety, Muscular Dystrophy, and Blood Bank donation programs it must be said that it was a great production for a great cause.

ROCK MY SOUL-71

Cast—"Mickey Mouse Club March"

Doug Kline as "Big Bopper"

Rock My Soul '71 began more like a motorcycle flick than a variety show, as "Doc" Shoebelenson and his Band of Renown (?) strutted through the audience in "dago" T-shirts and clambered down into the band pit. But the scene was set for a 90-minute revival of the music which the 1950's decade created—rock 'n roll.

The senior-sponsored show, directed by emcee Doug Kline, set a fast pace throughout the evening, moving from a choreographed fight scene from "West Side Story" through the great songs of the era.

Senior John Helling and the rest of the male chorus (John Manzo, Dan Kiedrow, Ken Kline, Joe Owens and Bob Freund) sent the audience back to the record stacks, urging them to "Remember Then." Jack O'Conner investigated the "Silhouettes" which the Rays saw in the late 1950's. "Young Love" received a smooth treatment from John Manzo, while Bob Freund spent his time wondering "Who wrote the Book of Love?"

No rock and roll revival could possibly omit Elvis Presley, so Joe Owens threw a group of grabbing girls into hysterics with the King's greatest-hit, "Hound Dog." The "Big Bopper" (Doug Kline) talked on the phone to his "Chantilly Lace," and Ken Kline (no relation) copied a hit by Dion and the Belmonts, "Teenager in Love."

Gene Heitz and Bill Kehl returned as E and Dubbs by describing the process of getting ready for a date in the '50's ("I even sharpened by shoes and greased my pompadour!"); drummer pete Deberge, along with the dancers, recreated the Sunday hop scene with the Venture's "Caravan."

Sophomore Steve Hockins took all the blame for "Charlie Brown," while, later on, Jim (Body) O'Connor, along with the whole sobbing cast, mourned his "Teen Angel."

Some new Clarke discoveries redid "Bobbie's Girl" and "Breaking Up Is Hard To Do." "The Locomotion" was the favored dance; also, two Essex songs received their due—"Easier Said Than Done" and "She's Got Everything."

Rock My Soul '71 continued a five-year tradition, which was shown in the one song which has carried over every year, the "Mickey Mouse Club March."

Both male and female choruses saw a lot of stage time and the dancers (including Lorasmen Yogi Michal, Dan Davenport, Marcel Mosse and Bob Roth) gyrated in the fashion of a decade ago.

The end result was voiced by the entire party in the last number—

"We don't care what the people say; Rock and Roll is here to stay!"

Informing interested members of the Loras Community of alternatives and responsibilities to the Selective Service System is the purpose of the Draft Information Committee.

Serving the student body through an office in Keane Hall, setting up an oftenseen information table while likewise obtaining movies touching various aspects of the draft and war were the group's primary functions. The Committee was instrumental in bringing Tom Reeves, a controversial draft counselor, to the campus.

Operating under the premise that misunderstanding and ignorance are the center point of young men's fears, the group remained constantly available for counseling.

Coeducation, Student Handbook revision and Presidential selection dominated Student Senate activity during the 1970-71 school year.

Under the leadership of President Pat Winn, the Senate urged the Board of Regents to allow student participation in the selection of college president. At the same time, the Senate joined other groups on campus in recommending to the Regents that a policy of coeducation be initiated at Loras.

Senate leaders worked consistently throughout the year for revision of the Student Handbook, but they made little substantial progress.

During the year, the Senate backed the successful Club Football Program, initiated work on student evaluation of courses, sponsored "The Temptations" in concert and introduced compact room refrigerators to the campus.

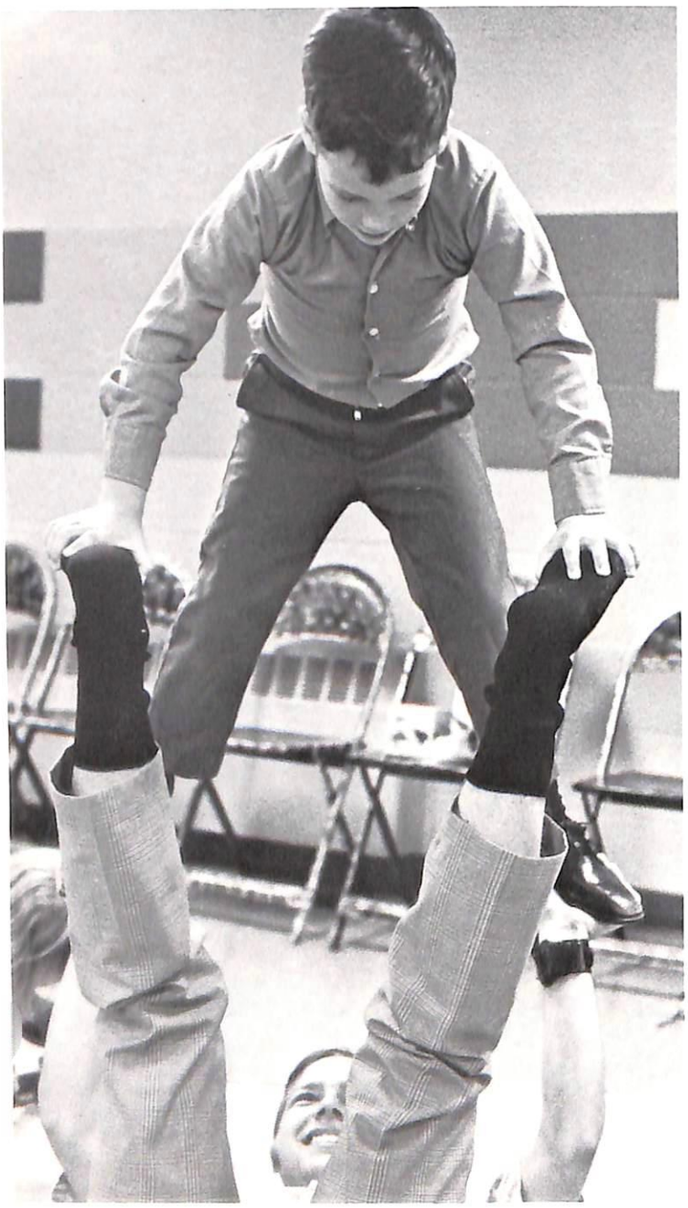

Throughout the year the Senate was plagued with the resignations of many cabinet and Senate members. In addition, several senators were removed from office because of excessive absences.

Yet despite its many problems, the Loras College Student Senate continued to remain as the legislative, representative body of the Duhawks. New senators very capably filled those seats left vacant by those senators removed from office and will undoubtedly do their best to serve their constituents.

BUDDY CLUB

"In humility is the greatest freedom" reads a banner in one Loras-man's room. That's what it takes, a certain amount of humility, to be a member of Loras' Buddy Club. But, at the same time, there is also a certain amount of pride in any man's heart when he sees a retarded child smile at him. Rewards come in all forms to the 100 people—half of them retarded from age 5 to 22—who gather every Friday night from 7-9 p.m. at St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Dubuque. The 50 or so "counselors" who come to share themselves with these retarded children come from Loras, Clarke, Mercy, and the University of Dubuque.

Anyone who has gone to Buddy Club and really tried to let himself go with these not-so-privileged will tell you that it's a thoroughly exhausting—and thoroughly rewarding—experience. There's always something to do: play cards, drink pop and eat popcorn, play games, or the most popular entertainment—dancing. Sometimes there's even live music and Gretchen, Janet, and Bonnie are als picnics and hayrides for the children in the fall and spring of each year. Responsible for this year's many activities are: President—Pat Kane, Vice-President—Mary Freund, Secretary-Treasurer—Dave Fischer, and Activities Chairman—Mary Jo Lillis.

On Sunday afternoons while most Duhawks are watching the Pro Football Game of the Week or recovering from Saturday night's bash, St. Vincent De Paul members are entertaining and selflessly giving themselves to Dubuque's old folks. SVDP's active membership is over 50 this year. Every Sunday, some twenty members will take a couple of guitars and head for one of Dubuque's nursing homes: St. Francis Home, Mt. Pleasant, Lutheran Manor, Our Lady of Lourdes, Holy Family Hall, Domincan Villa, Mt. Carmel, or the County Home.

SVDP also collects clothing from Lorasmen just before Thanksgiving vacation for the Annual Bishop's Clothing Drive. Loras students have been quite generous to this collection every year.

Officers for SVDP this year are: President—Mark Ressler, Vice President—Larry Jansen, Clarke VP—Jan Van Pouche, Mercy VP—Jean Drees, Secretary—Dan Oswald, Treasurer—Merlin Schrad.

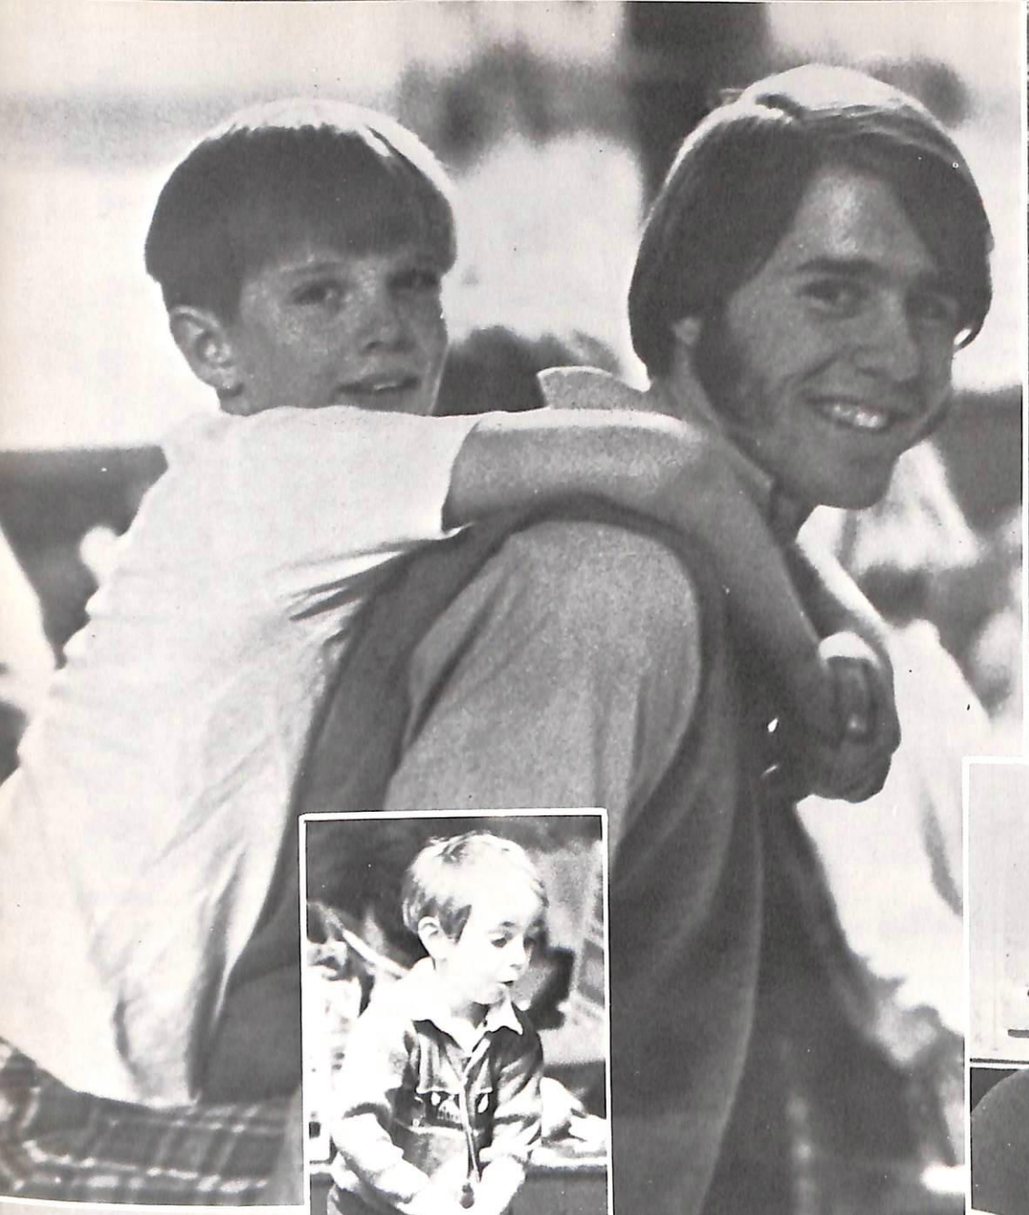

To the old folks of Dubuque's nursing homes, the smiling, singing faces of SVDP's members help to brighten up an otherwise lonely and monotonous life. These college students, sometimes more so than the adults, learn what life is really about in talking to one another. Perhaps both young and old can learn from these words:

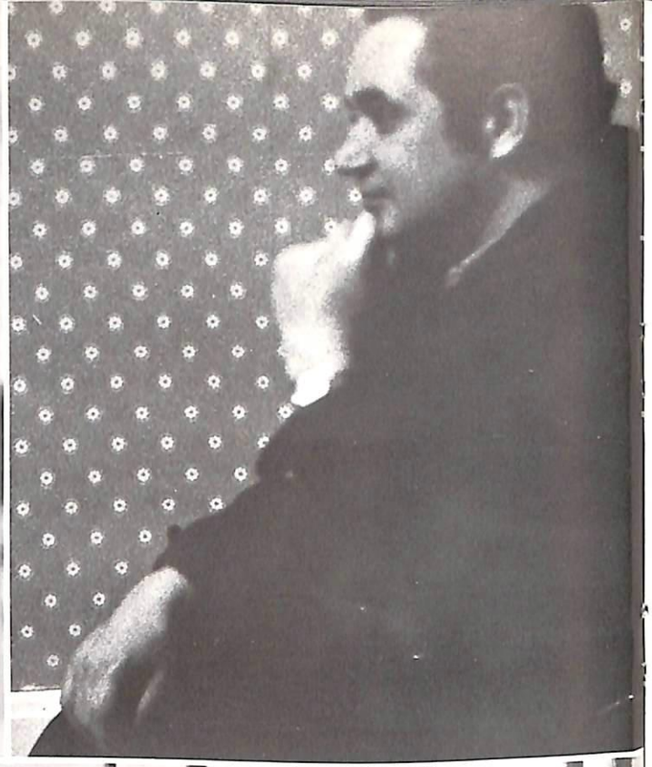

In the evening of my life I will look to the sunset;
At a moment when my life is close to an end.
And the question I will ask only I can answer:
Was I strong and brave and true?
Did I fill the world with love my whole life through?

DO-IT-YOURSELF

Peace . . . wonderful and beautiful like an autumn mist moistening the whole world—refreshing. Yes, life-giving . . .
the most authentic creator of happiness—
next to God—
harbored in the minds of little children.
I can tell,
their smiles betray their happiness.
That beautiful peace.
Once—yes once—I was a child and I knew that warm feeling.
But now I'm older and yet a man—no longer a child.
Still, that innocence of a child . . .
where did it go . . .
sad? Maybe. But I try not to be.
But . . . but I can't ignore those crying children—hungry, tired, deserted.
And the riots . . .
why can't everyone be equal? Brothers and sisters?
Wars, I try to forget—but how can I blot out the graves men—dead—for no reason—and children without a dad—why?
Life. It's free . . . if we can learn to love.
People. People should be viewed as an end not as a means.
Happiness. Happiness gives my life meaning—and Peace.
I really feel close to God when I'm happy and peaceful.
Maybe—someday—if I try hard.
My life is a dream ready to explode with love.
Someday, I know I will be happy.
I hope that day comes soon.
Until then . . .
until then I still have God and my friends . . .
and with them my life will be happy and I will again experience the thoughts of a child and be at PEACE . . .

KLOR

Lou Alb

The "Voice of Loras College," radio station KLOR moved into its seventh year of broadcasting with new heights in broadcast professionalism as well as technical difficulties.

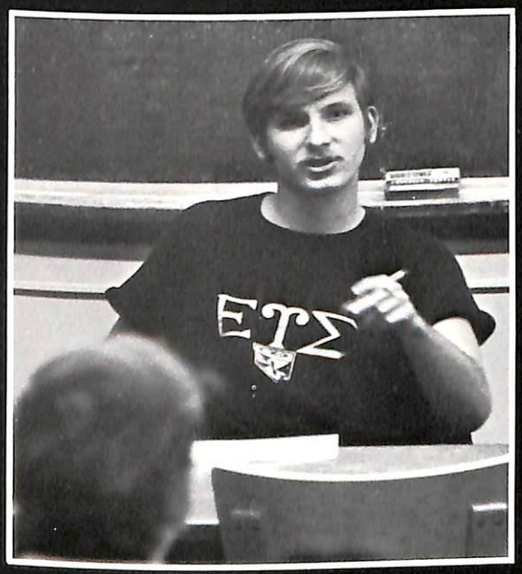

The station's music policy moved into the world of hard or "heavy" rock, and put less emphasis on strict with the standardization of news formats, and the assignment of a steady anchor man for the 10:00 p.m. newscast.

KLOR was, however, beset by more than its share of difficulties during the school year. Most of the problems centered on the vintage master control console in the main studio which, after three damaging fires, was finally declared a total loss.

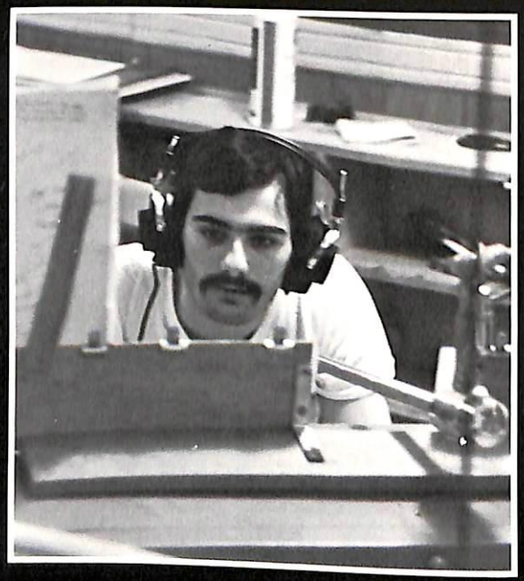

Forced to broadcast on a reduced schedule from the production studio, KLOR was still able to serve the students of Loras, Clarke, and Mercy School of Nursing. The station was unable to carry further remote sports broadcasts and other features. However, basic programming did continue for the remainder of the year.

KLOR President Robert Beno received a loan from the Student Senate for the purchase of a new board, but because this did not cover the entire amount necessary he was forced to turn to the student body for additional funds.

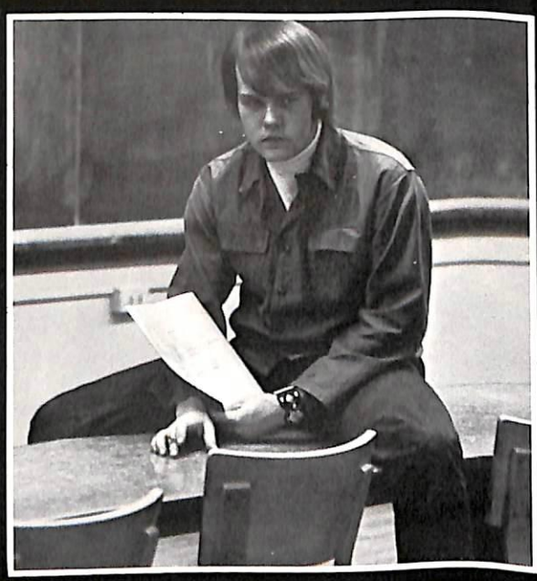

Yet despite all of the difficulties, KLOR continues to expand both its facilities and capabilities and remains as the voice of Loras College.

EDITORS' NOTE

Dear Reader:

Throughout the school year THE LORIAN has striven to maintain its strong links with the past and tradition. Via our up-to-the-minute news coverage, we have kept the Loras campus informed of all the college news and sports.

The nature of our editorial position is best exemplified by the, heretofore unpublished, photos of the staff at work. We found these pictures amongst our dusty files deep in the confines of our otherwise modern and efficient office in modern and efficient St. Joseph Hall.

Our perceptive news stories have been put to press and delivered to the hands of the reader periodically during the year. Our extensive list of subscribers is growing continually as more and more people realize that our newspaper is but a few weeks away by means of the most efficient postal services.

We hope you were pleased with this year's LORIAN and we promise to do better during 1971.

Respectfully,

the Editors

A sunny day,
A mild day,
An autumn day,
A day for excitement, good times and college football.

The weeks of pre-season practice and conditioning climaxed on the afternoon of September 26th when Loras took their home field against the number one team in the nation, St. Louis University. The Duhawks, though inexperienced as a team, played a fine game despite the one-sided score. The Billikins, who have played together for a number of seasons, moved like a well-oiled machine as they rolled up 67 points in route to a 67—18 victory. Although the opening game was a loss it was not a defeat. The St. Louis game was for many people involved with club football a moral victory. The mere fact that Loras fielded its first football team in 11 years stands out as an accomplishment in itself. But the real Loras victory that afternoon, though, belongs to the fans. The Rock Bowl was packed and the Duhawk rooters were teeming with anxiety throughout the entire afternoon. Further, this game spirit and team support that they exhibited in the initial game of the year continued throughout the entire season. Our fans are number one!

Sweat rolls off your eyelids—
Throat burns as dry as the baked earth
That pounds at your aching feet.
Your rubbery legs can't go any farther—
You know that you must!

Coached by Dan McClimon, the cross country team has finished another season. Compiling an 11—2 record during the regular season, the harriers went on to once again defend their District 15 N.A.I.A. Championship for the 3rd consecutive year. At the N.A.I.A. National Cross Country Championship held at Liberty, Missouri, Coach McClimon's runners finished 10th as a team for a most fitting end to a very successful season. We congratulate the cross country team and especially Coach Dan McClimon as he was named "Coach of the Year" in Area Four by the N.A.I.A. college track coaches.

DUHAWKS JET SOUTH

The trip to the South, which began at 7:00 a.m. January 1st and lasted until 7:00 p.m. January 7th, gave the Duhawks a chance to see some of the more historical cities and towns, forts and battlegrounds, cemeteries and national monuments in the country as well as the opportunity to visit shrimp boats and walk along the shores of the Atlantic.

However, the trip was by no means just a sight seeing tour. While they were in the South, Loras played three of the finest teams in N.A.I.A. District No. 25 which covers the states of Georgia and Florida.

In Savannah they dropped a hard fought 78—74 decision to an aggressive Armstrong State team, who at that time had their eyes on a tournament berth in March.

Their game in Americus against an outstanding Georgia Southwestern team marked the high point of their play on the three game tour. Thanks to their driving offensive play and tenacious defense they defeated Georgia Southwestern 71—62. As a side light it should be noted that on January 2nd, the night the Duhawks played Armstrong State in Savannah, Georgia Southwestern traveled to Augusta and defeated Augusta College, the top ranked team among the 27 teams in District 25.

This same Augusta College team furnished the opposition for the Duhawks' third game. After jumping to an early lead, thanks to their superior out-shooting, the Duhawks trailed Augusta 28—27 at the half. In the second half the home team proved to be just too much for the Dubuque "Five" as they posted a 71—56 victory.

Following the game in Augusta, the Duhawks packed for the last time and got ready to depart at 11:15 a.m. the next morning.

Dickens Exhibition

In the year marking the centenary of the death of Charles Dickens, Wahlert Memorial Library held an exhibition of its collection of first editions of some of his works and other memorabilia. This great Victorian novelist who, unlike his contemporaries, serialized his works in separate installments or in magazines, enjoyed a remarkable rapport with his reading public. Many times he received communications from his readers regarding their likes, dislikes, and proposals for ending his tales. Though primarily considered a novelist, Dickens also delved into the fields of the reporter, editor, and playwright. His journalistic and dramatic endeavors also received due representation at the library's exhibition. Mr. Klein, Librarian, stated that, "If our Dickens exhibition is successful we plan to hold other exhibitions of materials from the rare book room." Judging from public response, I believe Mr. Klein's hopes were realized.

Medieval Manuscripts

Medieval Manuscripts

On February 14, Wahlert Memorial Library held a second exhibition of its rare books—this time showing its collection of medieval manuscripts of the Middle Ages. With many of the manuscripts dating back to the 12th century, the popular use of paper was not to begin for many years. Thus scribes, who copied the manuscripts by hand, utilized a material known as parchment upon which they could write. This parchment, which was made from specially prepared animal skins, became the normal writing material for all manuscripts from the 5th century to the 15th. Using either a reed pen or a quill pen, scribes also concocted their own inks from such materials as the sac of the squid, iron pyrites, oak bark, soot, lampblack, burnt ivory, or pulverized coal. Gold and silver were also used for writing either whole manuscripts or for adorning the initial letters of books.

Faculty Senate

In its first year of operation, the 1970-71 Faculty Senate assumed a position of significance as the voice of the faculty on the Loras campus.

In September the Board of Regents approved a proposal to establish a Faculty Senate. Rev. Msgr. Justin A. Driscoll, President of Loras, announced the decision of the Regents saying: "This is indeed a progressive step for the entire Loras Community. I am very pleased that the Board of Regents has approved the proposal for a Faculty Senate."

Professor Frank Noonan was elected chairman of the Faculty Senate in early October, defeating Rev. Robert Ferring in a run-off election.

Noonan outlined two goals he termed the "main impetus" of the Faculty Senate: "to involve the faculty in decisions affecting the college community, particularly academic decisions, and to aid the faculty members in making ourselves more professional."

Revision of the Faculty Handbook was the first priority set by Chairman Noonan for the 1970-71 Senate. In addition, the Senate began work on the report of the Committee on Committees, a recommendation for significant changes in the committee structure of the college.

During its first months of operation, the Faculty Senate urged the Board of Regents to adopt a policy of co-education at Loras, played a role in the selection of the college president and formulated a "proposal for a Black Students' Program at Loras."

According to the Preamble to the Constitution of the Faculty of Loras College, the Senate is designed to "promote the effectiveness of Loras College in its role in higher education as a Catholic liberal arts college and provide a means by which the special competence of its faculty membership may be utilized more fully in sharing the responsibility for formulating, implementing and evaluating the academic program for the college."

The Faculty Senate aids in the determination of guidelines for academic matters, including the formation of educational policies, the setting up of standards and requirements for degrees and the formulation of policies concerning academic freedom.

In the future, the Faculty Senate may play a role in the formation of a College Council—a body consisting of administrators, faculty and students, which would determine college policies.

The following faculty senators were elected to represent their divisions in the 1970-71 Senate: Dr. John F. Bamrick, Division of Sciences; Dr. Francis Lehner, Division of Language and Literature; Dr. Lawrence Moran, Division of Theology and Philosophy; Mr. Robert Pommerich, Division of Business and Economics; and Father Ferring, Division of Social Sciences.

Mr. Frank Miller, Rev. James Barta and Dr. Kenneth Kraus were elected at large.

The approval of the Faculty Constitution by the Board of Regents culminated four years of work begun in 1966 by a committee headed by Rev. John Friedell.

With the formation of the Faculty Senate, Loras joined about 70 per cent of the U.S. colleges which have similar faculty representative bodies.

Summer 1970 brought good news as well as warm, southerly breezes to the Loras College campus. The Loras Graduate Program In Teacher Education, under the very able guidance of its director, Father Neil Tobin, received full approval from the Iowa Department of Public Instruction. Now students enrolled in the Loras Graduate Division are eligible for certification which will permit them to function as elementary and secondary school principals, elementary school supervisors, and secondary guidance counselors. In the wake of the announcement, Father Tobin expressed his thoughts concerning this culmination of many years of preparatory work on the Graduate Division of Loras College in this fashion—

"Naturally we are very pleased that our program has received this recognition since we are proud of the curricula which allow a candidate to specialize in either Elementary or Secondary Education or to receive a graduate degree in Counseling and Guidance.

We have worked very hard to make it possible for a candidate to receive a Master of Arts in Education in three different specializations and we feel that our Education Department has made real strides in recent years.

The specialization in the graduate faculty in the Department of Education can be seen in the fact that 11 of the 15 members hold Doctorates."

On the heels of good news came even better news. Based on the findings of a team from the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, who visited the Loras College campus last spring, the Graduate Division received full accreditation to grant a Master of Arts Degree in Education, English, History, and Latin. Further, the undergraduate program received a continuation of accreditation.

To be sure, accreditation by the North Central Association comes as very welcome news for all connected with Loras College. Not only does accreditation insure the continuation of the Loras undergraduate program but also improves prospects for increasing enrollment through promotion of the improved graduate division.

MERGER

Faced with a decreasing enrollment and higher costs, the Loras community entered 1971 seriously considering proposals for coeducation and inter-institutional merger.

A committee appointed by the Board of Regents to study the possibility of merger with Clarke College concluded in February that a bi-college merger was not presently feasible.

The members of the committee—two Regents; Mr. Cyril Frommelt and Mr. Jack Crahan; two administrators: Mr. George Freund and Mr. C. T. O'Dowd; and two faculty members: Rev. Warren Nye and Mr. John Dorweiler—met with representatives of Clarke College to discuss further "academic" merger.

The Merger Committee reported to the Regents that Dr. Robert Giroux, President of Clarke, rejected the bi-college merger proposal, suggesting instead increased tri-college cooperation. Giroux maintained that increased tri-college cooperation could culminate in the establishment of a federated university.

Patterned after Oxford University in England, the federated institution would feature three independent, under-graduate colleges and a single university.

While the federated university concept was under study, the Regents considered recommendations on coeducation from many segments of the Loras community.

In May, 1970, the Educational Policies Committee endorsed a resolution urging the Regents to adopt a policy of coeducation for Loras.

In February, 1971, the Faculty Senate followed the lead of the EPC and urged the Regents to "favorably consider beginning the fall semester of 1971 on a fully coeducational basis."

The faculty resolution recommended "that any necessary study be expedited in order that the Admissions Department may begin the recruitment of women students as soon as possible."

Explaining the rationale behind the resolution, the Faculty Senate maintained that "as an Archdiocesan college, Loras should recognize the needs of the discese and its responsibility to provide "a Catholic education to its daughters as well as its sons."

Citing the national trend "to convert traditionally all-male schools to coeducational institutions," the faculty resolution noted that "many educators feel that a mex of men and women on campus is educationally desirable, providing not only a better social life for students but also a more stimulating intellectual environment."

According to the faculty recommendation, coeducation would "assist in reversing the enrollment decline of recent years" and "consequently enable Loras to continue providing quality education for all its students."

A week after the Faculty Senate recommended coeducation, a Student Senate committee completed a month-long study of the issue. The committee studied the effect coeducation has had on other colleges, extensively polled the Loras student body and considered the consequences of coeducation for the Tri-College Cooperative Effort.

In supporting their recommendation, the Student Senate cited the two-fold financial and enrollment problem facing the college. Noting that 90 percent of high school graduates favor attending a coeducational institution, the Student Senate concluded that coeducation would improve student recruitment.

The Senate also maintained that coeducation would bring about an improvement of the academic standards of Loras College and the other Dubuque colleges. By promoting greater competition for admission and providing for increased enrollment and a resulting increase in faculty, coeducation would benefit the entire Tri-College Cooperative Effort, the Student Senate said.

The Senate report to the Board of Regents noted that coeducation would help combat student apathy. It pointed to the results of the student poll, which indicated that 90 percent of the Loras students favor coeducation and that the vase majority of the students felt coeducation would have a "very favorable" effect on student morale.

Acting President Burton McQuillan summarized the attitude of the Loras community when he told the local news media: "College officials are under mounting pressure to adopt a policy of coeducation."

COEDUCATION

NEW CURRICULUM

A three and a half year curriculum study at Loras College has culminated in the adoption by the Board of Regents of a new curriculum which will be effective in the fall of 1971.

The Loras faculty and acting president Burton R. McQuillan have approved the new curriculum which is the first complete curriculum change at Loras in nearly fifty years. It has been described by students and faculty as the Loras Curriculum for the 70's.

The new composite curriculum will be required of incoming Freshmen. However, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors will have the option of completing the traditional curriculum on which they started, or the new curriculum.

In effect, the student will elect all courses except fourteen hours of basics. The degree requirement is 120 hours, a drop of eight from the previous curriculum. Required courses formerly included 72 to 78 hours of general education, in addition to the major field.

Also, the B.A. and the B.S. degrees will have the same college requirements, with the individual department deciding on the basis of departmental concentration which degree will be awarded.

In order to facilitate the operation of the new program, a new divisional structure has been adopted. Departments have been grouped into five divisions, each with a divisional chairman, for the purpose of integrating courses and avoiding duplication. The divisions are:

Division I HUMANITIES: Art, Classical Languages, English, Modern Foreign Languages, Music, and Speech. Division II SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL STUDIES: Economics, History, Political Science, Psychology, and Sociology. Division III NATURAL SCIENCE: Biology, Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics. Division IV PHILOSOPHY AND THEOLOGY: Philosophy and Theology. Division V PRACTICAL STUDIES: Accounting, Business Administration, Education, Engineering, and Physical Education.

The basics program is established as a separate entity of the college with its own director, and should provide the training needed for a freshman group of students with widely different backgrounds and levels of ability to merge smoothly into the mainstream of academic life. The central concern of the program is the basics course which includes units in composition, speech, logic mathematics, fine arts and physical education.

In order to assure a liberal education, students will select a number of courses which have been designated as general education courses because of their liberal content and approach. This will include a number of courses in each of the following broad areas of knowledge: the humanities, social and behavioral studies, natural science, and philosophy and theology. A student will major in one, minor in another, and have a minimum of twelve hours in each of the remaining groups.

General Education is organized around four "key Concepts" I Man's Literary and Cultural Heritage; II Man's Social Relations; III Man's Natural Environment; IV Man's Quest for the Ultimates.

Normally one of these will be explored in depth by the Field of Concentration. Two more will be sampled to the extent of at least 12 credits each by the distribution requirement. The fourth is dealt with by a device which owes its inspiration party to the "Two Cultures" concept of C.P. Snow and for which the name "Balance Minor" has been coined.

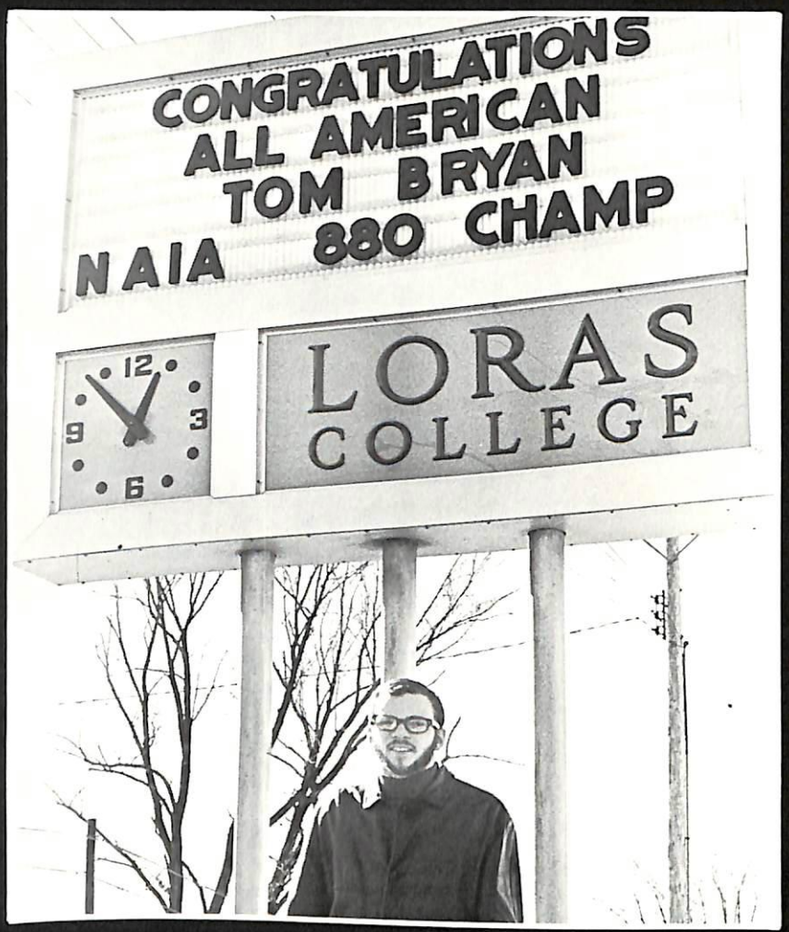

Aside from the basics course, all else will be elected by the student himself, since he selects both the major and the minor fields.

The function of the general education courses is to prepare the student for his roles as an individual person and a member of society rather than for a specific vocation or profession. In this perspective, the divisional structure will include departments as indicated.

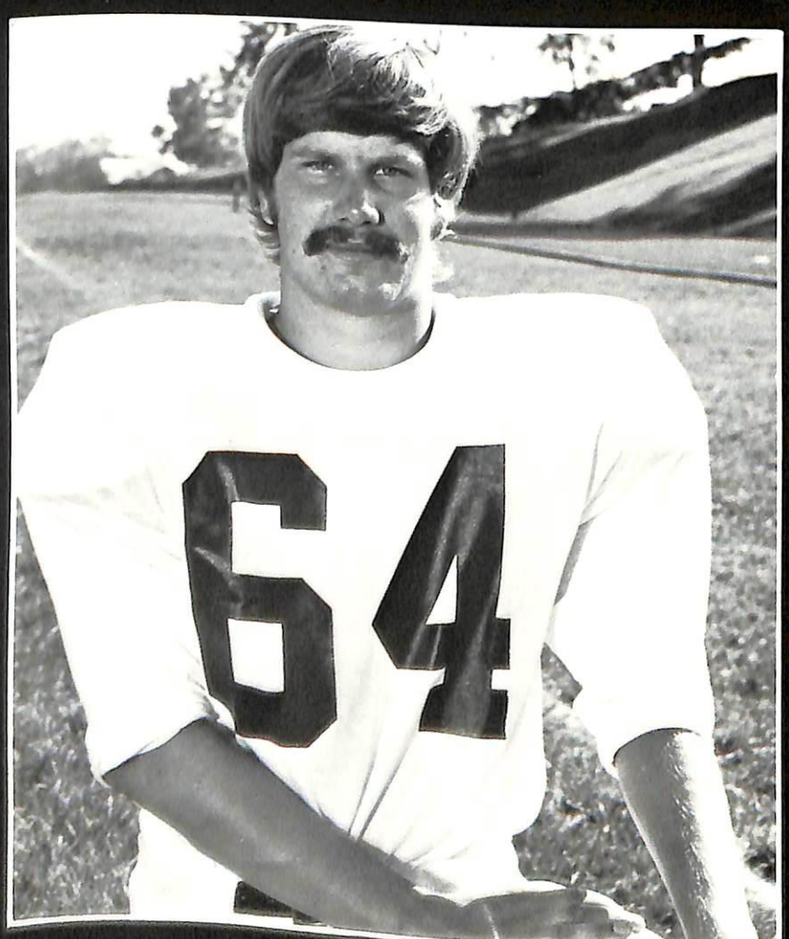

The balance minor is a cluster of courses, totalling at least 18 credits in a field contrasting with the major. The intent is to counterbalance the inevitable narrowness inherent in the completion of the field of concentration. Its purpose is to acquaint the student with a methodology and content differing from his area of professional interest, and to secure sufficient depth and competence in a field of knowledge quite foreign to his area of greatest interest.

ALL AMERICANS

Tom Bryan—named All-American for winning the 880 yard run at the N.A.I.A. National Indoor Track Championships held at Kansas City, Missouri. Bryan won in a time of 1:55.8 as he defeated defending National Champion Cornelius Shoaf of Grambling and finished first in a field of nine of the top middle distance men in the country.

Tom Swab—received "Honorable-mention" All-American honors for his outstanding play during the 1970 Club Football season. Swab, a versatile athlete who can play both offense and defense, proved to be invaluable to the Duhawks in their first year of Club Football competition. To both of these fine athletes, the PURGOLD extends its congratulations.

"our place"

this is steve friedman. he's the editor—this is his book!

this is sue hamilton she types copy. also advises the editor—(who needs it!)

this is chris tighe. he's sports editor and all around jock!

this is mike hamilton. he's sue's "little" brother. he also moves typewriters.

this is rick freund. he's the staff's only letterman and is one half of a very unbeatable team.

this is marg tighe. she's not a letterman but still is one half of a very un . . . !

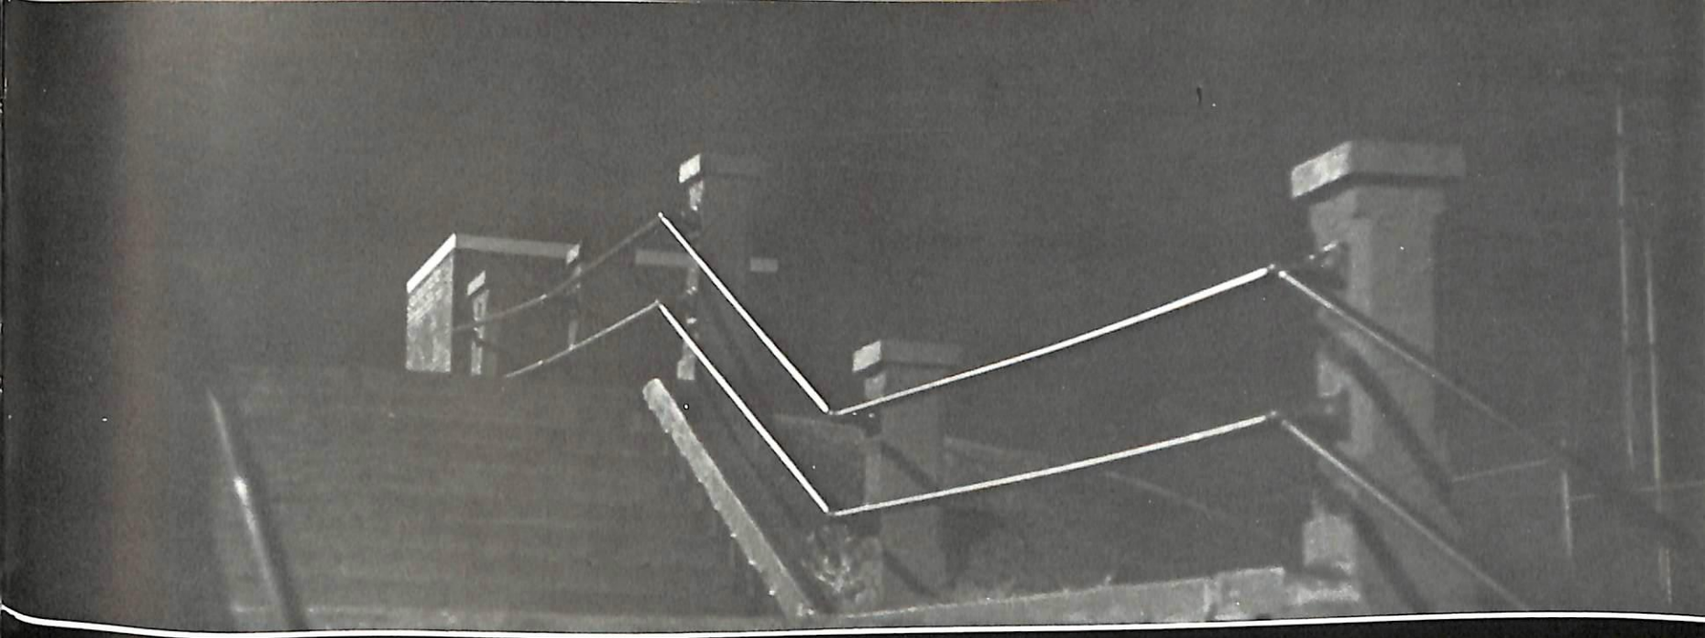

this is ralph navarro. he's the only graduating member of our staff—we'll miss him!

this is vince coyle—slightly grayer up on top but still running strong. thanks again, vince!

editor's note—

instead of an "editor's note," i think that i will write a short "thank-you note" to the many people who made this year's book possible. for as editor of the '71 purgold, i believe that mention must be made of the many hours of work that helped to finish this yearbook.

first, posed in a striking array on the facing page, are the photographers. their contribution can be very easily stated —no pictures, no book! now if you'll turn the facing page back, i would like to introduce you to another very distinguished group of people who live at "our place." spinning the ball on the end of his finger is "uncle bo" (chris tighe). chris took on the job of sports editor for this year's book and came through with the big plays at the right times. ralph navarro put together the senior section and will graduate in the spring so "good luck, ralpho." since he can't type, mike hamilton spent his time moving typewriters around the room—(actually, mike put in a lot of time compiling this year's index). rick freund and marg tighe made a sort of "team" effort for this year's book with each contributing his and her own pages—rick, pp. 88-89 and marg, p. 18. and according to rick and marg, the "team is remaining together!" our advisor, vince coyle, also deserves mention as he may be the only one (editor excluded) who sprouted gray hair because of the book. ""sorry 'bout that, vince!" typing the copy for a book like this is a big job and sue hamilton was the little girl who did such a wonderful job of typing virtually the entire book. so just a simple "thanks to sue and all the rest of you who helped out in the completion of the '71 purgold."

though that concludes the mention of the immediate staff members, there is one other person who should be recognized for the fine job that he did for us—mr. fred stoeker, our yearbook advisor from american yearbook company. believe me, we had a lot of problems this year. but with fred's help, we always pulled through. so thanks, fred, for everything.

one last word, this time to each of you, the readers of this yearbook.

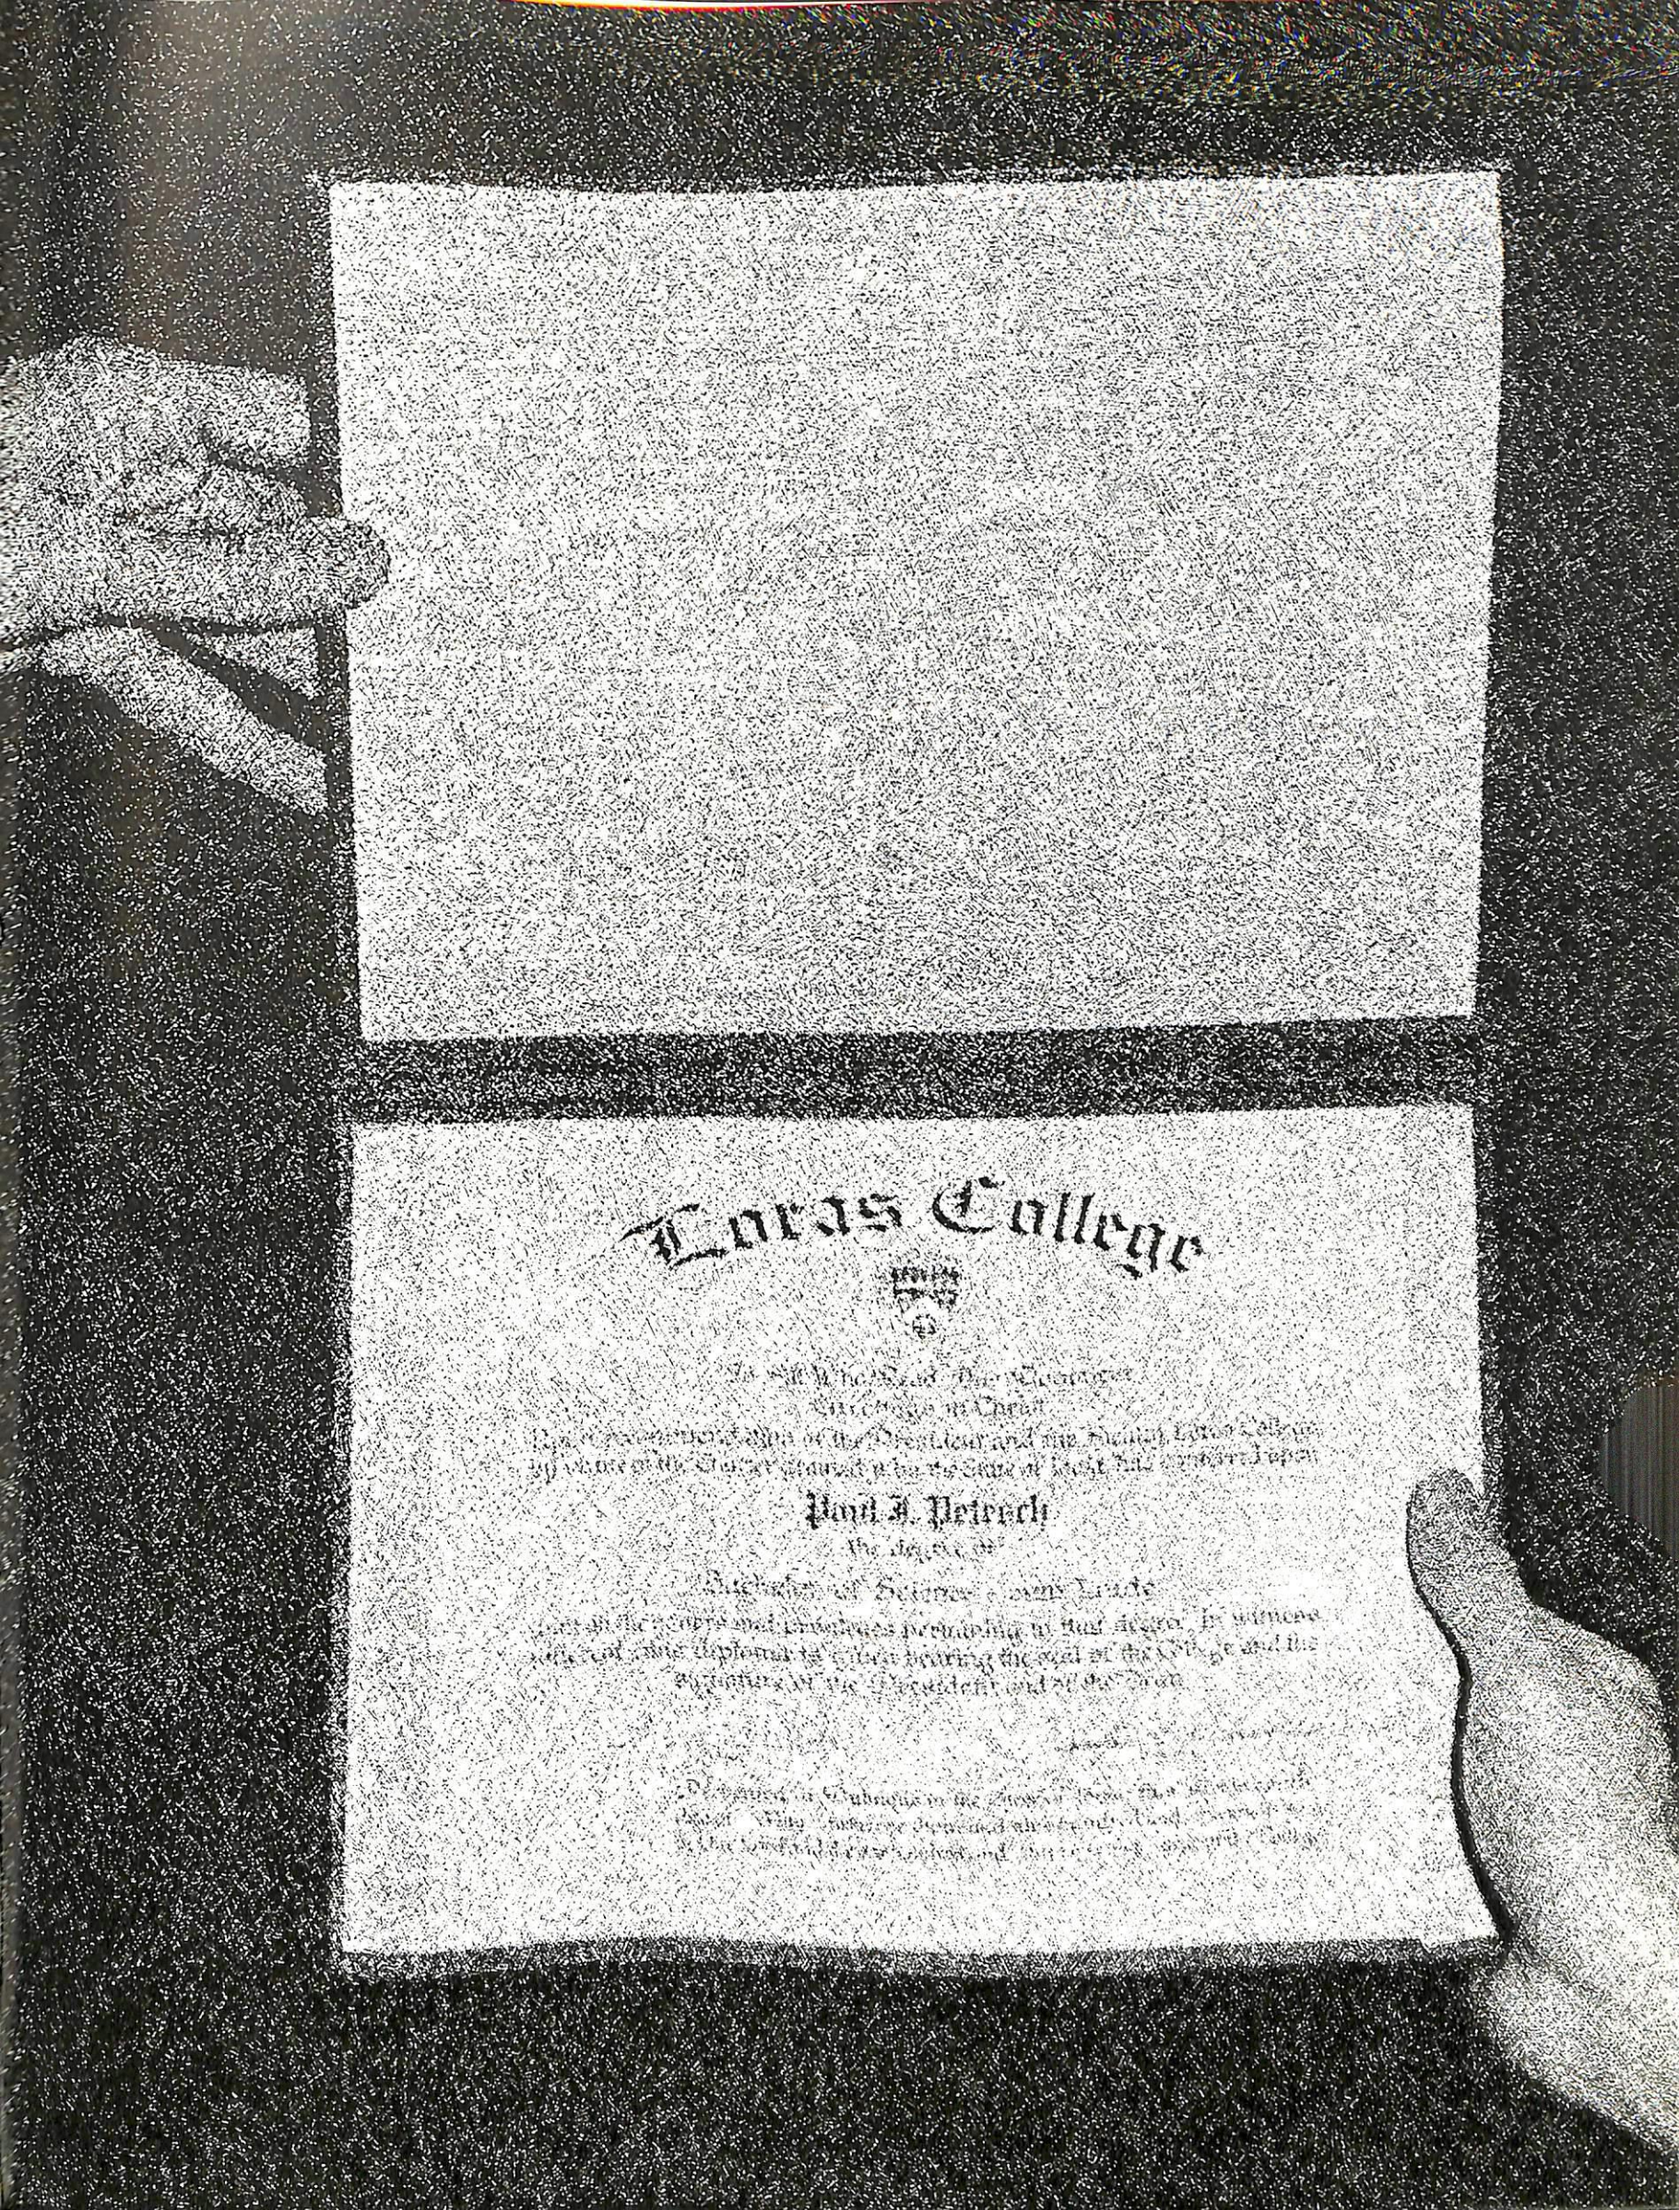

to edit a book of this nature is very difficult. many people have spent many hours to produce each of the pages that comprise your yearbook. to be sure, this book is not because it cannot be free from errors. and yet, i must recognize the fact that each member of our staff has done his very best to produce a good yearbook. we are a young staff with most of us returning next year. but for now, your yearbook for 1971 is finished—one year in one book. two covers and one hundred and ninety-two pages. for moments gone by find no home except the forgotten past unless they can be recalled by the people who made them. we hope this book can help recall a few of these college "moments" for you as you "turn around" and look at "our year."

'hope you enjoy the book and we'll see ya' again next year . . .

Administration

THE PRESIDENT

Statement by Bishop-elect—Justin A. Driscoll

"I have received the announcement of my appointment as Bishop of Fargo in North Dakota with mixed feelings. I realize that, in His Divine Providence, God selects human instruments to help carry on His work: "some as apostles, some as prophets, others as evangelists, and others as teachers . . . for the building up of the Body of Christ (Eph. 4; 11)." I humbly accept the assignment as Bishop of the Church of Fargo in a spirit of faith and confidence in God and His loving Providence. Nothing but the service of the Lord could prompt me to receive such a serious and burdensome responsibility. I ask your prayers and remembrances, for I know they will help immeasurably to lighten the load.

I am deeply grateful to our Holy Father, Pope Paul VI, "the permanent and visible source of foundation and unity and communion" (#18 Constitution on the Church), who judged me worthy to be the spiritual shepherd of the See of Fargo.

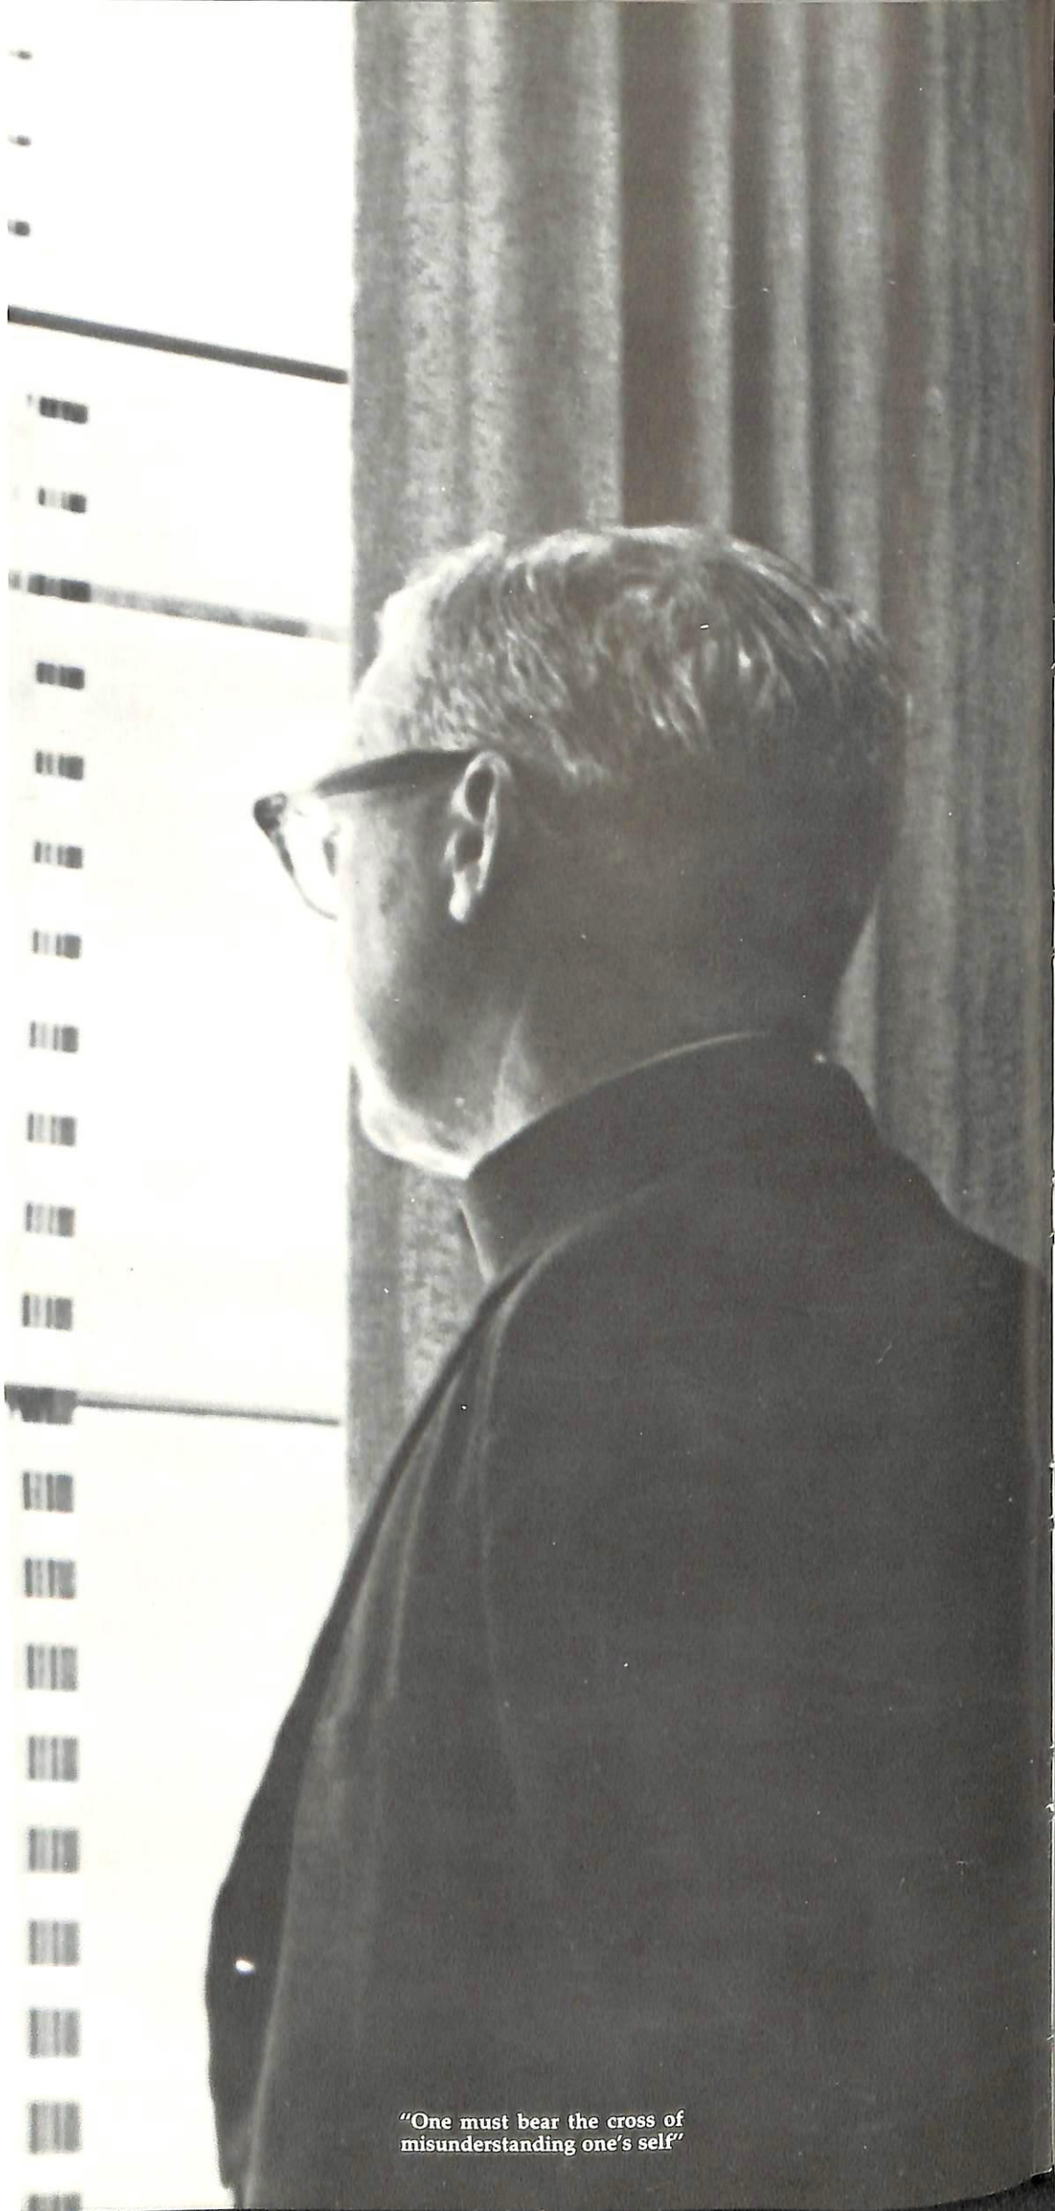

Likewise, I thank His Excellency, the Most Reverend Luigi Raimondi, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, and our own Archbishop, the Most Reverend James Byrne, for their expression of confidence and kindness to me.

The Archdiocese of Dubuque has been very good to me and I shall always be grateful to my superiors, to the priests, religious, and people of this Archdiocese for all they have meant in my life.

The greatest treasure I have, my priesthood, was nutured in my family, in the parish of Sacred Heart at Fillmore, and at Loras College; and I am grateful to my parents, to the members of my family, and to each one who had a part.

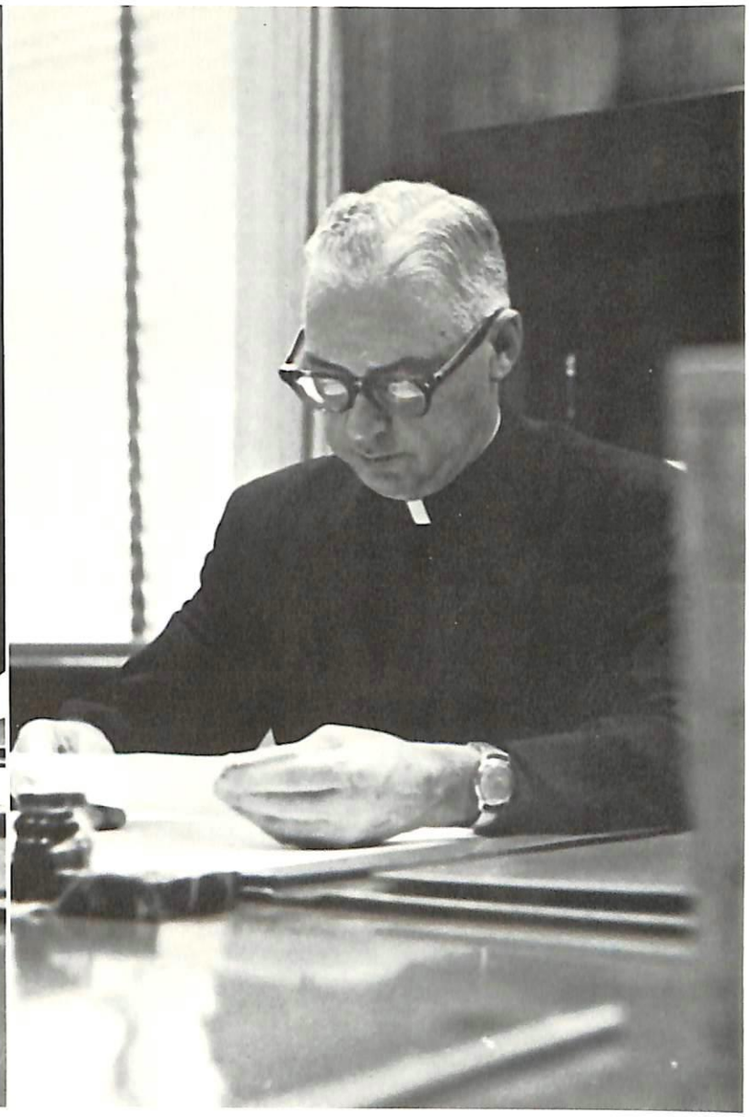

I shall be especially saddened to leave Loras College, its faculty, staff, and students whom I love. Loras is a vital and living campus; it contains the hope of the future, our youth, with their limitless possibilities for good. I promise them and all, at Loras and throughout the Archdiocese my prayers. I ask yours as well."

To be sure, during his term as President of Loras College, Justin Driscoll helped to realize a number of important goals ranging from the complete accreditation by the North Central Association of the Loras Graduate Division to the recently-completed revision of the Loras College Curriculum. This editor would like at this time to thank Justin Driscoll for his many difficult labors at Loras College and wish him well as he attends to his duties as Bishop of Fargo. And in the light of those "difficult labors," I think it would be well if we take particular note of the words which he spoke to this same editor in an interview a few days prior to his departure, "One must bear the cross of misunderstanding one's self." So again, Justin Driscoll, thank you.

"One must bear the cross of misunderstanding one's self"
